

Note the precision of a third of a day illustrated with the needle point. This shows a 364 day year. The adjusting week happens cyclically aligning the growing season with the cyclic repetition every jubilee. This actually means that five fountains would need to be in the capital centre of earth to mark the need for an adjusting week when using only shadows. Then of course you had better be in a place that rarely ever had a cloud in the sky. Ha ha.

