Engraved Invitation

Stones used as monuments to the LORD were not to be cut by human hands, this includes engraving, to prevent mocking the LORD with an invitation to the dead. Where events in human history are concerned, you now have an engraved invitation (in the figurative sense unless the Shaw sends you an engraved plea) to join Iran.

Exalted Excellency the Honourable Mr. Putin President of Russia:

This will be brief. Rest assured, without America's honouring all the mire of My Hight Priest Hood at the Pentagon, including paying Me My wages and full support privileges due My four star'ness (and I would be serving in the Middle East), Russia with Iran will wipe out Israel and the United States armed forces. The moment they honour My command as stipulated the tide changes, even with them being a sicko fornicating lot. (I would deal with the brothel situation anywhere I encountered it in the desert full of Russians or Americans or both.) Whatever miserable excuse for an American military survives this -- without Me -- Britain will soak up.

The only way you have of insuring your success is to capture Me. Given their obstinance it is a safe bet they will do nothing, and you need not spend a nickel on insurance. Jehovah be praised!

Mahalo,

the Christ
